Google Kubernetes Engine Strategy Workshop

About this workshop

Deploying and managing container-based solutions can be overwhelming, even for the most seasoned IT professionals. Your operations and development teams understand the value of containers and may even be using them in certain scenarios. But the adoption of containers is a paradigm shift for your organization — ensuring you have the right strategy is critical to long-term success.

This workshop helps teams understand the benefits of Kubernetes and Google Kubernetes Engine (GKE) to host workloads. Participants will work with Insight's Digital Innovation experts to define a clear strategy for leveraging Kubernetes in the Google Cloud.

Preparing for transformation

To ensure you receive the greatest value from this workshop, you'll need:

- Participation from business leaders looking for change (CEO, CIO, CTO, CMO or other business technology leaders)
- Participation from leaders responsible for designing and architecting your enterprise IT systems and solutions
- Participation from leaders responsible for developing and architecting applications
- A culture of cloud agility
- A group of 5 to ten leaders

Workshop topics

Over the course of this workshop, we'll begin to design your container-based strategy informed by Insight's Kubernetes expertise and your specific goals and requirements. Topics include:

- Google Kubernetes Engine overview
- Building a container strategy guided by Google and industry best practices
- Logging, monitoring, Continuous Integration/Continuous Deployment (CI/CD), governance and security
- Application modernization options
- Determining if containers are the right choice for your organization
